Committee Asks Students To Give Money, Clothes

A committee, headed by Pete O'Millian, has been organized on campus for the purpose of campaigning for aid to the Hungarian refugees. The committee is asking the student body for clothes and money.

Students are asked to bring the articles of clothing they wish to give back with them after the Thanksgiving holidays.

An appeal for funds will be made on campus Monday and Tuesday, November 19 and 20.

The sub-committees are: Campus publicity; Glen Coston, chairman, Elaine White, Tom Bryson. Newspaper publicity; Britt Fayssoux. Blackboard publicity; Doc Green and Ronnie Cook. Collection (funds); Robert Gore, Jack Godfrey, Joan East. Public relations, Dewayne Dutton.

This campaign is sponsored by interested students who have banded together from the Sociology and International Relations Club.

Plea Made For Contributions To Lit. Quarterly

This is to be a final plea for contributions from the student body and faculty for the Literary Quarterly that is to be printed in December. It was and is the hope of the George-Anne staff that this could be published each quarter. Thus far there are not enough contributions to print this quarterly in December.

The type material that may be printed is short stories, book reviews, poems and essays. We urge you to give any contribution for this quarterly to Jane Williams, Eleen Blizzard, Britt Fayssoux or leave them in the Public Relations Office, or there will be no Literary Quarterly!

Mudpacks are supposed to be good for aiding facial beauty and are quite often used by women. The sophomores obviously feel that since it works so well for facial beauty, it should be used for baths and are experimenting on the long suffering "rats." As to how effective it is, ask them. On the editorial page of today's paper you will find some interesting pros and cons concerning Rat Day. So turn to page two and read Larry Hyde's column, Ellen Blizzard's article and the letter to the editor which has more names signed to it than any in the history of George-Anne letters.

I.R.C. Hears Address By Native Hungarian

By GLEN COSTON
President of I.R.C.

Last Tuesday night Dr. Zoltan Farkas, associate professor of modern languages, spoke to the International Relations Club about his native land, Hungary.

Dr. Farkas began by stating that Hungary is about the size of Indiana and has a population of about 9,500,000. He said that the present mass slaughter of the Hungarian people is not the first. During the thousand years of Hungary's history much of the population has been killed by invaders. During the Thirteenth Century, Ghengis Kahn led his horde into Hungary. This invasion killed one-third of the population. From 1526 to 1686, the Turks occupied Hungary. During this occupation one-fourth of the population was killed.

Next Dr. Farkas discussed some of the great people Hungary has produced, such men as Benczur, the painter, and Izso, the artist. The Hungarian composer Bartok is considered to be the greatest composer of the first half of this century by his many critics. The composer Dohnany, is one of the greatest living composers. He is presently teaching at Florida State University.

The Hungarians are also outstanding in sports. In the International Boy Scout Jamboree of 1925, Hungary placed third. In the Olympic games of 1952, Hungary came in third following the U.S.A. and Russia. These are tremendous accomplishments for a country with a population of 9,500,000.

The last phase of the talk was concerned with the present rebellion against the Russians. Dr. Farkas stated that many of the Freedom Fighters were students. The minimum age requirement to be a Freedom Fighter is only ten years old. Though the people of Hungary are bled white and seem to be crushed, the talk was ended on a note of hope. The Russians have shown their true face to the world for all to see. They simply cannot be trusted.

Everyone present felt much gratitude for having such a man to speak. All left the meeting with the same idea. "Couldn't we have done something?" Perhaps something can be done. Next week there is going to be a campaign on this campus for funds (money and clothes) to be sent to Hungarian refugees in Austria and Switzerland. If you have any feeling for a people who stood up and fought tyranny with bricks, you must give!

Annual Starlight Ball Slated For Saturday Night

The Starlight Club Ball will be tomorrow night, November 17, in the old gym at 8:15 p. m.

The full college orchestra, the Professors will furnish the evening's music according to the Art Club, sponsor of the dance.

A colorful floorshow has been planned in keeping with the theme "Tomorrow."

The dance is semi-formal and flower are optional. People with table reservations are reminded to bring their tickets.

November 27-28 Date For Play

November 27 and 28 are the dates set for the production of "Summer and Smoke," the drama to be presented by Masquers. The play will begin at 8:15 and admission will be 50c for students, 75c for faculty members and $1.00 for adults.

The set, designed by a professional, Jo Mielziner, is within itself a work of art and an extremely difficult set to build since it requires three different playing areas and most stages are not big enough to allow for this. Many long and hard hours have been put in by Masquers and their members of the students body to build the best set ever seen on the G.T.C. stage by Masquers.

The male lead is played by Michael Lowery, a transfer student from F.S.U., who is majoring in English and minoring in speech. While at F.S.U. Michael did work in the radio and T.V. workshop. His plans for the future are to become a professional playwright. He portrays the part of John Buchanan Jr., a typical promethean figure, brilliantly and restlessly alive in a stagnant society. His leading lady is Diana Bair.

Freshmen Candidates Nominated Wednesday

Student Council Discuss Plans Of Homecoming

The dining hall line-breaking situation was a topic of discussion of the Student Council at their Monday night meeting, and was further discussed at a breakfast meeting of a special committee studying this question on Wednesday morning of this week.

Conclusions reached at the Wednesday morning session were brought before Dean Paul Carroll on Thursday morning in another attempt to iron out difficulties in that area.

Members serving on the special committee include Dewayne Dutton, Jane Jackson, Ralph Walton and Bob Byrd.

During the regular Monday night meeting, plans for this year's Homecoming were also discussed, with Dr. Georgia B. Watson presenting some faculty suggestions for improving the parade and exhibits.

It was pointed out that floats and exhibits work "tremendous hardships" on the dormitories and that float building seemed to create more interest in clubs. No definite plans were made, but the ideas will be further considered later. Suggestions were also made concerning the Homecoming dance after the Beauty Revue.

The newly proposed student seating arrangement for college basketball games also came up for debate at the Monday meeting. Concerning this, the Council urges full cooperation from the student body in keeping the student section cleared of coats or other articles that would take up seating space. According to the group, there will not be enough room for students in their section unless this request is complied with.

Emory Giles, Sandersville; Charlotte Owens, Marietta; and John Carroll, Unadilla, were renominated for the freshmen class presidency Wednesday afternoon in the first class organizational meeting of this year.

Vice presidential nominees are Doris Ann Staton, Albany; Ava Owens, Fitzgerald; Judy Rittenhouse, Statesboro; Jim Park, Statesboro; and Ray Belus, Harlem.

Jean Hightower, Toombsboro; Joyce Ryan, Savannah; "Doodle" Choyce Jackson, Washington; and Linda Plummer, Albany, were nominated for the office of secretary-treasurer.

Dewayne Dutton, president of the Student Council, explained that the nominations for the representatives to the student government are very important to the whole school, and that the utmost care should be taken to select the right people for the job.

For the male representative on the Student Council, Jerry Brown, Manchester; Carroll Walker, Waycross; Ted Tucker, Brooklet; and David Powers, Tifton, were nominated.

The girls nominated were Mary Ann Harrell, Macon; Ramona Wall, Cordele; Linda Bishop, Elberton; and Martha Brantley, Wrightsville.

The election will be held on Monday, November 19, with run-offs on Tuesday, the day after. This precaution is made so that the freshmen will know who their officers are before the Thanksgiving holidays.

The class will also have to nominate and select a class sponsor, according to Mr. Homick, the appointed sponsor. This will take place almost immediately after the holidays so that the class can be organized first.

All of the class is urged to vote in this first election since the officers will be the year's officers, and will embody all the wishes of the freshmen, and try to carry out their duties as a newly organized class should.

PRESIDENT ZACH HENDERSON of Georgia Teachers College left is shown accepting a check for $500 from E. A. McDonald, representative of the Allstate Foundation at a recent meeting of the Rotary Club. The money is to provide needed equipment to expand and improve the course of driver education being given at G.T.C. under the direction of J. B. Searce. —Photo by Dobbs.

LARRY HYDE is officially congratulated for taking "Ugliest Man on Campus" title by Diana Bair, Miss G.T.C. of 1955. Mr. Hyde was selected by votes made by the entire student body. Larry is a sophomore hailing from Walhalla, South Carolina.

Editors Reassert Policy

Last week The George-Anne printed what has turned out to be a rather controversial letter. In the past two years we have gained a certain type of notoriety for printing what are considered by many to be letters which should not have been published. Once again The George-Anne would like to make its position clear on this subject.

As everyone knows, or should know, the George-Anne is a student newspaper published by the students and for the students. If we believe a student or group of students have justifiable complaint against what goes on in the world, nation, state, on the G.T.C. faculty, or within any student organization then they will be given the right to write a letter concerning the problem to this paper. If the letter is not lewd, obscene, unfair, or completely unfounded then we feel duty bound to print it. A name or names must be on the letter when it comes to The George-Anne office, but if the person or persons give what we consider to be a sufficient reason why a name should not be published then we withhold it on The George-Anne files.

Needless to say the editors of The George-Anne believe that last week's letter from "Hopeful" and "Desperate" had some justification; just how much justification we cannot say, but there is no doubt in the mind of the staff that it was not completely unfounded. In other words, if we had thrown the letter in the trash can, then in essence we would have been throwing The George-Anne in the trash can.

A problem exists and to ignore it or try to hide it would be both unfair and unrealistic. The George-Anne feels that it has done its duty by bringing this problem to light.

Many people have the idea that because we print a letter we are in complete agreement with what is said in the letter. That, of course, is not the case. Many times in the past we have printed letters which we did not agree with, but which contained honest opinion that we thought should be aired.

In the case of the "Hopeful" and "Desperate" letter our sympathy was with the students who wrote the letter, but we do not say they are completely right and that the person criticized in the letter is all wrong.

The editors of The George-Anne would prefer to run every letter with a name on it, but our policy remains the same as before and if sufficient reason is given the name is withheld.

We believe our duty has been done, and that The George-Anne has in the past been a free, independent, and fair newspaper and will continue to be in the future.

Support Your Chosen...

We talk a lot and hear a lot about the role the students should fill on a college campus. Many of us here at G.T.C. have felt for a long time that students here were worthy of wider or broader trust responsibilities. The most successful college is the college where the students, the faculty, and the administration have equal privileges and rights through separate areas of responsibilities. We think there have been strides this year toward increasing the weight of student opinion and the relative importance of students at G.T.C.

If this is so, then it behooves each of us to be more conscious than ever of the responsibilities thereby placed upon us. We must act as adults among adults, and we must cooperate to the best of our abilities in making the school life at G.T.C. a full and interesting experience.

Now to be specific. One way we can do this most effectively at the present time is to back up our representatives through cooperating in improving the seating situation in the gym. Members of the Standards Committee have consulted with members of the administration and have arrived at a solution which seems fair and equitable. The plan is outlined fully in Britt Fayssoux's Sports Column. We urge you, the students, to give this arrangement your support, both as an indication of your willingness to cooperate with the responsible authorities in the administration and as a gesture of solidarity with your own chosen student representatives.

May we have a happy and very successful basketball season.

Sophomores And Freshmen Commended For Rat Day

By ELLEN BLIZZARD

The sophomore class and its officers deserve commendation for their excellent supervision of Rat Day. It was the most successfully executed program in many years. All of us realize that a great deal of preparation and constructive thought went into the planning. The sophomore class dropped petty grievances and worked to make the day good, clean fun for everyone but mostly the freshmen.

The freshmen are to be commended for their good sportsmanship. They were cooperative throughout the day in carrying out the sophomore instructions.

The administration of this year's program would be an excellent example for any future Rat Days.

All students participating showed to a very great extent their maturity. The sophomores in charge were responsible persons who were willing to leave themselves open to adverse criticism from their fellow classmates and upper classmen in an effort to do nothing that would be obscene or malicious.

The freshmen participating were willing to show they could still have fun while looking ridiculous.

And one last word. We are glad to see the human rats go and to know that we now have a full-fledged freshman class.

Dear Editor:

We below want to express our feeling of satisfaction toward the "Rat Day" activities.

We feel that having participated, our school spirit has increased, and we feel more a part of G.T.C.

Hyde and Seek

By LARRY HYDE

This is one week that I am glad to see come to an end.

When someone mentions doing away with Rat Day, the reaction is usually something like this: "We have to have Rat Day because it is a tradition at Georgia Teachers College," or "We had to do it last year so why should they get out of it."

First, since tradition is mentioned, let's take a look at the Rat Day tradition here at Georgia Teachers College. Mr. Webster defines tradition as a custom or practice that has the effect of an unwritten law.

Tradition is a good thing and I think that we need more of it here at G.T.C., but can we call Rat Day a tradition when it has been stopped three times in the past? In 1926 the college administration put a stop to Rat activities because of the severe physical punishment being inflicted upon the freshmen. Rat activities were halted again in 1932 because of insensible leadership on the part of sophomores. When World War II started Rat Day was stopped again for obvious reasons.

After each interruption, the administration would resume the event in hopes that Rat Day would create good school spirit by the way of good clean wholesome fun for all concerned.

I thought the sophomores had a very good Rat Day this year with the exception of one incident that happened. This incident was uncalled for and I, for one, thought that someone gave an example of very poor taste.

Monday night, two freshmen girls received notes from the sophomore committee for Rat Day activities informing them that they would not be allowed to take part in any of the activities on the following day.

The reactions of the two girls were entirely opposite. One girl thanked the sophomore messenger very nicely and went on about her business while the other girl became emotionally upset and packed her clothes to go home. Upon hearing of this reaction, the sophomores had a conference "on the summit" and decided to let her participate.

I am not taking sides in this issue because I think the two freshmen girls were wrong in taking the attitude they took and I think the sophomores were wrong in singling out two girls out of 200, but can the sophomores truthfully say that these two girls were the only two freshmen, men and women, who did not wear their Rat hats and did not have a cooperative attitude?

As most of you know, all activities planned by the sophomores had to be approved by the college administration. The above incident was approved by the proper officials who must now realize that it was a mistake to let this take place because they feel Rat Day is not a day in which certain students are to be singled out and degraded personally.

I think a lot of people will agree that ignoring the two people would have done the job better. These two girls have learned a lesson and I am sorry they had to learn the hard way.

I don't think the sophomores accomplished anything by handling the situation as they did, but everyone makes mistakes.

I read in a book that going to college builds character. If the above incident is an example of the character being built by Georgia Teachers College, then I have been badly fooled for the past two years.

In conclusion, I would like to say that anything written in this column is the opinion of myself and does not reflect upon the editor or staff members of The George-Anne.

Letter of Importance

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a letter written to the Savannah Morning News by Mrs. Zoltan Farkas. It was reprinted in the Bulloch Herald and we feel it should be read by all G.T.C. students.

Editor, Morning News:

I have been reading your editorials for almost seven years. I have found that your paper was very well informed concerning Europe and the political situation there. In your editorial last Friday, "Soviet Troubles Are Only Beginning," you disclosed the importance of the Hungarian revolution to your readers. It seems that people don't have more information about Hungary than that it is the land of rhapsodies and goulash; and that she is a Soviet satellite.

I felt I should add something to this knowledge. I am a former citizen of this wonderful country. My husband and I found a new home here seven years ago. But because we have been born and raised in Hungary, our heart goes out for the people suffering there.

In the past twelve years the grasp of the Soviet fist was the strongest in Hungary. She was the only non-Slav nation among the satellites whose whole territory was occupied at the end of the Second World War.

It is no surprise to us, this rebellion against the oppressors. Hungary's thousand-year-old history shows her many many times fighting for freedom and independence. We knew that sooner or later this moment would come, maybe it would take fifteen years or 150. At one time Hungary was occupied for 150 years by the Turks, but the love of freedom was alive in the hearts of the Hungarians.

You said in your editorial that Hungary showed a propensity for the wrong friends in recent years, perhaps due to geography. I think it is due to her history. In the 13th Century there were as many Hungarians as Britons. But the wars against the hordes from the East, the 150 years of occupation by the Turks, and her fights for independence diminished the number of Hungarians through the century. Now, there are just ten million living in present-day Hungary, ten million Magyars surrounded by eighty million Germans and 250 million Slavs, and in the way of both. When wars come, she has to make up her mind which way to yield, because she is not strong enough to stay neutral or to fight both. Did she really choose the "wrong friends?" She could not choose, because you don't have a free choice if you have a gun aimed at your head.

Hungary knows that she has to fight her own wars because she always has had to. There was seldom any help from the West. And through the centuries, the West was able to build and prosper, while Hungary, like a wall, was holding back the waves of the Eastern hordes.

Being a 70 per cent Catholic country, she always felt an obligation to the West and was a fortress of Western culture and Christian civilization.

The past twelve years of Soviet occupation and the communist rule could not make her forget the ties she has with the West. Hungary is showing again to the world that she esteems freedom so much her people would rather die than to live in slavery.

Inquiring Reporter

By Dillard Maxwell

The people of Hungary are tired of being ruled by Communist Russia and have made a stand against them for freedom and independence. How can the United States stand by and watch the people of Hungary be slaughtered by the Communists for the cause of freedom and independence. We as a free and democratic nation have always advocated freedom for all people and I don't see how we can call ourselves Americans if we stand by and watch the country of Hungary crushed by the force of Communist Russia. "Should the United States send aid to Hungary to help them in their struggle for freedom and independence?" This is a major question of today, and here is how some of the students here at the college feel:

WILLIAM BROOKERD — I think the United States should aid Hungary in her fight for freedom because we have seen that the people of Hungary have an intense desire to be free and since the United States has always advocated freedom for all people, why shouldn't we aid her as we probably would if England was invaded by an enemy.

BOB ALLEN — I do not see how the United States can aid Hungary without becoming involved in a world-wide war. However, the United States should do what it possibly can through the United Nations and Red Cross.

FRED FAGNANT — I think the United States should try to help Hungary with any aid that would not involve the world in another large scale war. If we can help by peaceful means I am thoroughly behind this movement.

HERR GORE — As a nation of the U. N., help and aid should be sent and independent effort (to site the recent example of France and England invading Egypt) should be avoided. Even now, voluntary contributions to this cause are being collected. We want to become a part of this cause on this campus by giving our funds.

DONALD WELLS — I think we should help the Hungarian rebels in their rebellion for freedom. As long as we don't have to call the Air National Guard or the Air Force Reserve back in the service.

GLEN COSTON — Yes, indirectly. Some of our military storehouses in Germany might be left unlocked overnight "by accident." Who could say where the arms went.

The Inquiring Reporter is asking for some suggestions from the students as to what questions they would like to have answered. If you have a question, please write it down and address to Inquiring Reporter, and leave it in the publications room of the old gym.

BSU Publication

The Baptist Student Union here on campus has begun a campaign to get more students interested in reading "The Baptist Student," official publication of the B.S.U. department of the Southern Baptist Convention. The publicity committee under the direction of Stanley Brobston has made and put up numerous posters about campus.

The B.S.U., one of the most active organizations on campus, feels that through the reading of the magazine more students will become familiar with its work here on campus. The magazine which is put out every school month contains many articles of interest to all students and would be a valuable asset to any student's library.

'Girl Of The Week'

ELIZABETH MORGAN, better known as "Liz," is George-Anne Girl of the Week. Liz is a member of the Student Council, Science Club, second vice president of the B.S.U. and has held various offices in the house councils. Hailing from Lavonia, Georgia, Liz is a vivacious dark haired beauty with brown, brown eyes. She is a junior this year.

G.T.C. Band To Perform Friday With Reorganized Metter Unit

The G.T.C. marching band under the direction of Dana M. King Jr. will give a combined football show with the school band of Metter in that town tonight at the Metter-Hinesville football game.

The duo performance marks the G.T.C. band's second football show of the season, and is another opportunity for the public to view the new improvements of this year's group in appearance, size and quality.

Appearance wise, the band is stepping out in uniforms that demand admiration in any showing.

According to Don McDougald, school comptroller, the new outfits were purchased at a cost of slightly under $4,500. Designed by the G.T.C. art department, they were especially made to order by the DeMoulin Bros. and Company of Greenville, Ill.

An example of the type uniforms this company turns out can be found in the fact that this school's 20-year-old set of outfits was used up until two years ago and was also made by this firm. Band directors usually consider the average life of a set to be about five years.

It is felt by the music department that the difference in quality is well worth the cost, since replacement and upkeep costs will be lessened in the long run.

Acquirement of the uniforms has been highly praised by officials all over campus as well as in the town of Statesboro. The band's appearance this year is a striking contrast to their Home-coming appearance last year, when bandmen stepped out with a flourish in white shirts and jeans.

The show tonight will mark the first football show of its type to be given in Metter. The Metter band, to be featured along with the G.T.C. band, has been recently reorganized by its new band director, James Jones, G.T.C. junior music major.

Jones, who is working on a B.S. degree in music education, has a double major of vocal and instrumental music. He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity and of the Music Ed. Club.

Broucek, Hooley To Perform As Guests Pianists

Jack Broucek and Dan Hooley, well known music personalities on this campus will appear as guest artists in a duo-piano performance with the Savannah Symphony Orchestra in that city's municipal auditorium on Wednesday, November 28 at 8:30 p. m.

This is the pianists' second program in Savannah, the first coming last year, when the two played for the state convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs at the DeSoto Hotel. The program coming up, however, will be the team's first with a symphony orchestra.

Selections to be played that night will include the entire "Carnival of the Animals" by Saint-Saens. This composition will be played as it was originally scored, for two pianos and orchestra, whereas the work is usually heard in an arrangement for orchestra alone.

Other pieces on the program will include "Blithe Bells" by Bach, which will also be performed with the orchestra, "Les Ginka" by Khachaturian, and "Samba" by Milhaud.

This concert will be the second of the Savannah Symphony series for this season. Tickets for the event can be obtained at student prices through the Music Ed. Club by seeing John Chambliss. Transportation will be provided by the college bus that evening at a cost of 50 cents per person.

district I. The session will start at 9 a. m. with registration and will last until about 3:30 p. m.

Principal speakers on the program will be Dr. J. D. Park and Mrs. Patterson, the sponsor of state F.T.A. Also at the meeting they will elect district officers for the coming year. Clarence Miller of G.T.C. is this year's state president and Albert Cornelson is the local president.

F.T.A. HOST TO WORKSHOP

G.T.C.'s Future Teachers of America chapter will play host to the F.T.A. district I workshop on December 1. It will be the first meeting of its kind and will be for the purpose of planning for better F.T.A. clubs in

DUWARD WHELCHER

First Drum Major Selected For G.T.C.'s Marching Band

Duward Whelchel, drum major of the G.T.C. marching band shows off the strutting step he uses to lead the band's shows.

Selected last spring by unanimous vote of the band members, Whelchel is the unit's first drum major in history. In previous years the group was led by drum majorettes; however, it was decided last year that a male leader would lend a more military air to the band.

In addition to his job as drum major, Whelchel, a senior music major, is president of the band, minister of music of the First Baptist Church of Ludowici, Ga.; state and local B.S.U. chorister, and a member of Phi Mu Alpha and the Music Education Club.

The bandsman has already led his outfit through a high school football show in Statesboro, and in the "Rat Day" parade last Tuesday. Plans call for other such performances in the future.

The George Anne SPORTS

By
Britt Fayssoux
SPORTS EDITOR

This past Monday during the chapel period, student president, Dewayne Dutton reported to the student body on the outcome of an informal meeting of four G.T.C. students (of which I was one) and assistant coach Clements. Dutton gave a very thorough report of why this meeting was called and of the outcome. Purely and simply it was this. In order to have the student body sitting in one body, the athletic department had moved the student section from right hand downstairs sections to the upstairs section. The powers that are in the athletic department state that they did not feel that the students would object to the change. But when the word got around the campus concerning this change it became quite evident that the majority of the students did not like it at all.

In the face of this tide of opinion, Coach Clements called a meeting of students that he felt were representative of the student body. We assured him that student opinion was strongly against the move and so it was changed. The student section will again be downstairs first come first served and when the downstairs overflows, then the upstairs will be used to accommodate the overflow. One stipulation was made and we felt it to be a fair one. The students must cooperate and not take up an unnecessary amount of space with coats or by spreading out and using more than one seat.

Coach J. I. Clements has the thankless task of selling tickets for G.T.C. basketball games. The team is supported by the proceeds of the games and contributions from individuals. Coach Clements feels that it is only fair that students cooperate and sit in the section provided for them. He made it plain that if the downstairs student section overflows, then space will be provided in the upstairs section for students.

There is no reason why the students should not give their complete cooperation in this matter.

G.T.C.'s rejuvenated intramural program has been a smashing success thus far this school year. The first quarter's activities come to a close next week and the athletic department staff and especially intramural coordinator, Jess White, are in for a congratulatory pat on the back.

Student participation in intramurals has reached a new high this year. The reason for this seems to be the careful planning done by the athletic department to make sure that the students were organized into units and the fact that students have cooperated with this plan. The combination of planning and organization by Mr. White and participation and cooperation by students has made this one of the most successful years in the history of intramural sports here at G.T.C. This formula should continue to work for the remainder of the year.

Morris, Keefer Tie for Week's Football Honor

Week before last the football contest was won by Carolyn Davis who had only two misses. The games which gave Miss Davis trouble were the Stanford vs. U.S.L.A. and Oregon vs. California. Five people came in second with only three misses. They are as follows:

Harold Evans, Margaret Stanion, Cliff O'Neal, John Vaughn, and Guy Dasher. Mr. Dasher, as you might recall, won the first football contest of the year. Games causing the most trouble: Stanford - U.C.L.A., Oregon-California, Navy-Notre Dame, Pittsburg-Minnesota.

In this past week's contest there were two persons tying for the honor. Aubrey Morris, a day student, and M. E. Keefer of 240 South Main Street, Statesboro. They missed six games each. Nine people came in for a close second with seven misses. The games which were most missed were: Minnesota-Iowa, T.C.U.-Texas Tech, North Carolina-South Carolina, Georgia Tech-Tennessee, and the two ties between Navy-Duke and Clemson-Md.

Cross-Country Run Is Planned For Intramurals

The primary reason for intramural athletics is to present to the student an opportunity to participate in sports that he enjoys. In order for a program of this nature to be successful, the students have to give their whole-hearted cooperation. Even if you are not playing, get out and cheer your favorite team to victory.

Mr. Jess White and his capable assistants have worked hard on the touch-football program and they have very ably stimulated student interest in this phase of intramural activities.

In order to build up even higher interest they are planning a cross-country run between a field of male students. The course will probably wind through and around the campus.

The length of the course will be approximately two miles. All interested male students are asked to submit their names to Mr. White or someone in the athletic department. How about it, fellas? Let's start running and getting in shape for the big meet.

Here are the results of some of the first round matches in the golf tournament: Tootle beat Stoner 42 to 50, Hall beat Manley 47 to 56; Wallen beat Rucker 41 to 55, Poppell beat Hodges 49 to 58. The remainder of the first round matches must be completed by November 26.

The following men are scheduled to play matches in order to complete the first round: Alewine vs. Hobbs, O'Neal vs. Sawyer, Green vs. Lee, Head vs. Ward, Hyde vs. Griffin, Fayssoux vs. Walker, and Chance vs. Thornton.

The girls' volleyball league is moving along nicely. These females really try hard and have showed some fine team play.

The student attendance at these matches could also be improved. Listed below are the standings for the volleyball league.

"RETREAT, HELL"

A free movie, "Retreat, Hell," will be shown in the school auditorium Tuesday evening, November 20, at 7:30 p. m.

Sponsored by the Student Council, the movie is being shown on Tuesday since this is the last day students will be on campus before leaving for Thanksgiving holidays.

The show stars Frank Lovejoy, Richard Carlson, and Anita Louise.

Eagle end, Collins, crashed in and deflected the pass in the air. He then grabbed it before it hit the ground and stepped the final 10 yards for a surprised touchdown. Claxton dashed around right end for the extra point putting the Eagles ahead 14 to 7.

Time then ran out on the Horses and they went down to their second straight defeat. The regular season has been completed except for two postponed games. Mr. Jess White announces that arrangements are being made for the playoffs and it is expected that the majority of the playoff games will be completed by Thanksgiving vacation. The intramural football league standings are listed below. The standings are of November 13.

"LET US PREY"

I sometimes wonder if we have become numbed to the horror of war? Just this week a petition protesting the Russian atrocities in Hungary was signed by many students here at G.T.C. and yet the threat and devastation of war seems vague and distant to most of us.

Almost a century ago, long before the grotesque shadow of the atomic and hydrogen bombs loomed over a war-torn world—Mark Twain wrote a prayer and asked that it not be published until after his death. The reason for this he said was that "only dead men can tell the truth in this world and I have told the whole truth in that prayer."

Here it is:

"O Lord our God, help us to tear their soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to wring the hearts of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn them out roofless with their little children to wander unfriended through the wastes of their desolated land in rags and hunger and thirst, sport of the sun's flames of summer and icy winds of winter, broken in spirit, worn with travail, imploring Thee for the refuge of the grave and denied it—for our sakes, who adore Thee, Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, make heavy their steps, water their way with their tears, stain the white snow with the blood of their wounded feet! We ask of One who is the spirit of love and who is the ever-faithful refuge and friend of all that are sore beset, and seek His aid with humble and contrite hearts. Grant our prayer O Lord, and Thine shall be the praise and honor and glory, now and ever. Amen."

(N. Y. World Telegram)

The timelessness of Mark Twain's prayer is evident—the truth and honesty of his words, however, must be reserved for the judgement of the DEAD.

On behalf of the Vet's Club I want to thank each of you for the friendly and enthusiastic response to our Ugliest Man on the Campus contest and ball. Also our congratulations to King Ugly Puss, Larry Hyde.

Sophomores Paeon Faculty For Cooperation on Rat Day

By BOB SPELL

In the past few weeks I have tried to featurize the freshmen in their rat activities and now that rat day is over, I think it would be nice to reflect a moment.

I wonder how many freshmen still thing rat day is as bad as it seemed before the eventful day arrived. Further still, I wonder how many sophomores realize rat day would be so much fun.

Here's what I think about all the activities of last Tuesday. I believe everything that happened, or at least everything that I saw happen, was in good, clean fun, and the freshmen got just as big a kick out of it as we did.

All the freshmen are probably saying, "Yes, but we sure were tired out!" Let me tell all you people who are thinking this, that, speaking for myself, I was just as tired and sleepy as any freshman by the end of November 13.

I tell you one thing, little-bitty buddy, NEVER in my life have laughed so much. Between air-raids, Tarzan yells, Junior Birdmen songs, and pranks too numerous to mention, the rats kept me in stitches all day long.

I'm sure that everyone will agree that it was a day of wholesome fun for partially everyone on campus. I'd like to be able to "rat" the freshmen next year.

This will more than likely be the last article I will write about the rats, and I would like to tell all the freshmen that I think, for the most part, everyone was a real good sport and that the group as a whole is just the greatest ever. More power to you next year.

P.S.—Just an afterthought. I think something should be said about the splendid cooperation and participation of the faculty. If they had not been so helpful, rat day wouldn't have been near as much fun. A parting question: President Henderson, just how many times DID you get kissed?

A feature of the session was a cooking demonstration in an electronic oven by Miss Julia Roberts, home economist for the Savannah Electric and Power Company. In the demonstration, potatoes and brownies were cooked in only two minutes using paper and glass plates. This school's home economic division is making plans with the Bulloch County Home De-

Campus Column

By JOYCE JACKSON

Hi Fellow Students:

I guess the most important thing that happened this week was the arrival of a large number of freshmen. Somehow, about 9:30 Tuesday night, all the "Rats" seemed to disappear as rat hats sailed into the air and there in their place stood over 100 freshmen. It was a happy climax for a good day. I wish to commend the freshmen for their cooperation and good sportsmanship and I think the sophomore class should be congratulated for working together to make it a day of wholesome, clean fun. The faculty members were good sports too! I don't know what Dr. Alexander thought the rats were going to do to him, but he sure looked cute in baseball "protectors."

Saturday night we found out who the ugliest man on campus is. We really don't think Larry deserves this title.

It seems there is a new definition of the Holy Land. In one of Dr. Rogers' recent tests, he found this answer. "The Holy Land is a good place where all people try to go, but only Christians can get there."

Mrs. Patterson, the state sponsor of F.T.A., was on campus Wednesday to help in making plans for the district workshop of F.T.A. which will be held on our campus December 1.

When I mention December 1, I also get excited about that first ball game which will be against Stetson on that date. I hope you all remembered to get your tickets over at the new gym so you won't miss out on any of the fun.

And now to remind you of something I know you couldn't have forgotten. Make sure you don your best frock and make your appearance at the old gym Saturday night for the Starlight Ball. From all reports it is really going to be "out of this world."

Thanksgiving is almost here, isn't it? And since I'm going home and you're going home and I won't be writing another column before then, here's hoping you have a wonderful holiday and I'll see you after Thanksgiving.

monstration agents to get a demonstration of this type in Statesboro in the near future.

Foreign Students To Hold Meet

November 22-24 is the date set for the first International Student Convention to be held in Georgia. The purpose of the meet is to orient foreign students in the basic fundamentals of the Christian faith. The meet is open to all foreign students to act as hosts. The convention is sponsored by the Georgia and South Carolina departments of student work in cooperation with the Baptist Sunday School Board.

Dr. Frank Stagg will act as faculty leader at the meet. Such men as Dr. George Switzer, head of the chemistry department of the University of Tennessee, will be among the speakers.

Up to Date

By MICKEY WEBB

Guess all the young ladies have their prettiest dress out and the young men have their suits all pressed and waiting for the big Starlight Club Ball.

Here's a sneak preview of what you'll see on some of our young ladies tomorrow night... taffetas, chiffon, shining brocades and satin, and, of course, laces, smooth silks and velvets.

Our young women will look their prettiest.

Some of the dresses have very, very slim lines, then just above the knee flounce out. This type of flounce is more commonly called "fish tail."

Others have billowing taffeta shirts with many petticoats. Won't they look lovely whirling on the dance floor.

Sparkling brocades and jeweled satins will twinkle around the beautifully decorated gym.

For colors...black is the most popular this year; red, aqua, blue, and white are others that will be worn.
